RMIM announces the launch of a new, landmark Antioxidant Scanning Technology

Do you take Antioxidants and Vitamins? Are you sure they are working?

We are excited to announce that the PHARMANEX Antioxidant Laser Scanner will now be a part of the many services we offer to address your overall health care.

Knowing your Antioxidant levels is as important as knowing your cholesterol levels, or blood pressure. T

There are now over 30,000 studies linking Free Radical damage at the cellular level - not only to virtually everything that ails us, but also to premature aging.

Antioxidants are nutrients from fruits and vegetables that can neutralize free radicals. That is why the American Cancer Society recommends 7 to 10 servings of fruits and vegetables per day. Since most Americans do not consume this much, almost all doctors now recommend their patients take vitamin supplements.

Until now, one would have to undergo invasive and costly blood or urine testing, often costing over $200.00, to find out their Antioxidant status. And neither method is a guarantee that one's nutrients are "bio-available", meaning that they actually reach the cellular level.

Developed at the University of Utah's Center for Bio-Medical Research Facility, the same facility that developed the first artificial heart, the Antioxidant Laser Scanner can measure your Antioxidant levels in a non-invasive, painless, accurate, and inexpensive manner! It is a major scientific breakthrough that has been validated by PHARMANEX, an elite company in Healthy Aging and Wellness, in multiple clinical studies.

Because this technology is so pertinent to our patients and provides an unprecedented means to assess the value of supplements and vitamins, we are opening up the clinic for a special "one day only" event :
